Meet Your New Best Friend at Cincinnati's Largest Pet Adoption Event

WHAT: My Furry Valentine, the region's largest animal adoption event, returns to the Sharonville Convention Center for its seventh year this Valentine's Day weekend. The mega-adoption event will feature hundreds of adoptable dogs, cats, puppies, kittens and other small critters from dozens of shelters and rescue organizations in the Greater Cincinnati area.

Driven by a mission to end shelter euthanasia, My Furry Valentine brings more than 800 adoptable animals under one roof to help them find forever homes. In addition to the main event, dozens of satellite locations around the city will host events featuring thousands of animals also available for adoption. Over the past six years, the event has found homes for more than 3,400 animals.
